As Mayor of Hawthorne and representing the City Council as the Chief Local Elected Official for the South Bay Workforce Investment Area (SBWIA), and in an effort to continue addressing the needs of the community during this economic downturn, I remain firmly committed to the enrichment and vitality of the City of Hawthorne and the entire South Bay Area.

Dedicated to these principles, the South Bay Workforce Investment Board continues to use a variety of available resources to supply our local communities with innovative services designed to improve the quality of life for all of us.

The South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) accomplishes its goals through a collaboration of resources among the workforce development service providers that include education and training communities, state and local government agencies, private businesses and community-based organizations. This culmination of resources has lead to an incredible line-up of innovative programs designed to go beyond the tradition of helping those most in need. Programs such as the Subsidized Transitional Employment Program (STEP), the Bridge-to-Work Program, the Gateways to Green Building Pre-Apprenticeship Program and the Southern California Aerospace Industry Project (SCAIP III) are all collaborative projects that provide models of social and economic strength in our communities.

The City of Hawthorne on behalf of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB), received an estimated $160 million in Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Emergency Contingency Funds (ECF) to provide subsidized employment for Fiscal Year 2009-10. Placements are occurring throughout Los Angeles County. I believe that this is the first time that a Transitional Subsidized employment (TSE) program has been funded by ARRA funds, and certainly the largest such program in the country.

The State's unemployment rate has reached as high as 12.3% which represents an actual 2,253,834 workers without jobs. The South Bay Workforce Investment Board has been diligent in assisting local areas in maintaining economic stability by preparing individuals for the job market, developing competitive work skills for first-time workers, assisting the experienced worker with transition and advancement opportunities, and guiding the displaced worker as they move to new areas of work.

Positive recruitment assistance for employers is one example of the many services they provide. This year the “One Stop Business and Career Centers” assisted Costco with the opening of a new store in Hawthorne, by pre-screening virtually all job seekers for Costco and assisting with the hiring of over 100 individuals. Additionally, positive recruitments were conducted for Marshalls Department Store, Pinkerton Security Government Services, HITCO Carbon Composites, Smart and Final and Northrop Grumman. This is a very important service to our cities as we strive to encourage new businesses to relocate and become a part of our community.

The Blueprint for Workplace Success program experienced record growth in 2009. The 9th Annual Blueprint for Workplace Success Youth Job Fair was once again a success attracting the largest audience in the history of the event. Approximately 1,100 high school students attended and more than 750 received job offers following the Job Fair. More than 60 local businesses interviewed, accepted applications and offered full-time and part-time job opportunities to participating youth.

We are fortunate to have the South Bay Workforce Investment Board here to serve the cities in the South Bay Workforce Area. I applaud their innovation, tenacity and numerous accomplishments over the past year.

I wish the SBWIB continued success and good fortune as they strive to accomplish their future endeavors.

Return on Investment is determined by the successful training and job placement of unemployed individuals. The taxpaying public receives long-term benefits as confirmed by comparing the cost of training to the amount of money returned to the local economy.

Return on Investment is calculated by using the entered employment rate and taxes paid by job training participants to establish the gross economic gain to the community.
SBWIB Chairperson, Wayne Spencer

During this 2008/2009 Program Year, the South Bay Workforce Investment Board has dealt with a number of significant changes. As with everyone, these economic changing times have caused greater hardship and even more complex barriers to employment. As we endure our nations’ economic downturn, with individuals facing a myriad of challenges like unemployment, homelessness, adversity and hardship, we continue to strive to provide inspiration and hope to those who have been impacted by these unfortunate circumstances.

In response to these significantly changing times, the SBWIB has developed programs and services that meet the needs of the community. As I enter my ninth year as Chairman of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board, I am proud to reflect upon the many achievements of the SBWIB. Over the past year, I have been particularly impressed with the way in which the SBWIB has embraced the opportunity to confront the many challenges of the economic downturn and have dealt with the momentous changes in our depressed economy.

We are fortunate to serve as the employer of record for one of the nation’s largest American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) funded programs receiving 160 million dollars to provide 10,000 jobs for CalWORKS recipients throughout LA County, and we have provided more than 75,000 youth and adults with a wide range of self-help and staff-assisted career services and programs this past year.

I am once again amazed at the exemplary level of service administered to the customers that walk through the doors of our One Stop Business and Career Centers. Much of this is due to the quality of service and dedication of the staff. As in past years, I have heard many accolades regarding the staff and service, and the praise provided by job seekers, businesses and employers that have been served. It is well recognized that the staff is very knowledgeable of the job market, trends, and forecasts and extremely successful in matching these with customer training programs, job opportunities, and ultimately gainful employment. The staff has also been integral in assisting businesses by providing them with information, staff training programs, successful staff recruitment, and many other services that inevitably lead to the stability and growth of their businesses.

The SBWIB continues to meet the needs of our youth as they seek the training and services that will help them be better prepared for higher education opportunities in college and vocational training schools, and eventually the work force. Awarded funding for the third year of a five year funded grant by the California Department of Education 21st Century High School After-School Safety and Enrichment for Teens Program, students continue to benefit from the $250,000 yearly grant. The grant provides academic and enrichment services to address student achievement, graduation rates, school truancy and dropout rates in the Leuzinger High School attendance area of Centinela Valley Union High School District. Over the past year, services for Leuzinger students have been extended to the Hawthorne Teen Center in order to serve more students. This expanded partnership has increased the number of students served by more than 20% under the 21st Century grant. Once again, this exemplifies the outstanding level of service, dedication and commitment of the SBWIB to develop and deliver services to all customers.

As Chairman, I am proud of the many accomplishments of the SBWIB which improve the quality of life, help businesses grow, and actively contribute to a more successful economy. Through a strong partnership with some of the major industries and businesses in the South Bay, we have been able to positively affect the economic climate of our service area. We appreciate and give thanks to many of our businesses such as Costco, Pinkerton Security Government Services, Northrop Grumman, Marshalls Department Store, Carson Town Center Wells Fargo, Smart and Final, Centinela Skilled Nursing and Wellness Center and HITCO Carbon Composites. Our One-Stop Centers provide opportunities for thousands of adults and youth to receive training and good paying jobs with these corporate partners over the years.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I want to extend our congratulations and thanks to the entire staff of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board for another successful year of exceptional service to the community. I look forward to another outstanding year.

Wayne Spencer, Chairman of the Board
THE YEAR IN BRIEF - 2009 ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Exceeded or met all State Workforce Investment Act (WIA) performance measures making it one of the State's top performing local workforce investment areas.

Awarded $160 million in Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANIF) Emergency Contingency Funds, as a result of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA), to place up to 10,000 CalWORKs participants in subsidized employment in the public, private and non-profit sectors throughout the County of Los Angeles.

Awarded $4,332,200 as a result of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA), to provide assistance to more than 1,000 residents in the South Bay area. Assistance included employment and training services to adults and dislocated workers and services for approximately 770 youth, 14-24 years of age.

Received $529,000 in federal economic stimulus funds from the State of California for the Gateways to Green Building Pre-Apprenticeship Program. The award made under the California Clean Energy Workforce Training Program will develop entry-level and specialty skills in residential green building for 70 South Bay residents.

Gateways to Green Building (Gateways) offers South Bay residents exciting skills training for green job opportunities. California's economy is "greening," and work on energy efficiency and renewable energy projects in residential construction will be a large part of the expansion.

Gateways is designed to prepare trainees for work on residential green building projects focused on home energy performance analysis and retrofitting, and the installation of domestic renewable energy systems. In addition to skill development for job opportunities in green building, trainees will learn how to make a successful application for apprenticeship to the IBEW/NECA Joint Apprenticeship Training Committee-Electrical Training Institute in the City of Commerce, California.

During this 3-month program, participants will develop environmental literacy in the context of green building and learn the fundamentals of energy, energy efficiency, and sustainable development. Part of their training will include a community service assignment working with a local nonprofit or governmental organization to weatherize or make other types of retrofits for energy efficiency on qualifying South Bay homes. They will also renew and improve their basic workplace competencies and develop workforce entry skills. Graduates will receive job search assistance.

Gateways is a part of the California Clean Energy Workforce Training Program and is funded by the California Energy Commission, the California Workforce Investment Board, and the California Employment Development Department under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009.

The program is managed by the South Bay Workforce Investment Board in cooperation with the Century Center for Economic Opportunity. Graduates will receive strong consideration for employment by participating home energy performance contractors in need of skilled personnel.

SBWIB RECEIVES $160 MILLION TO PLACE 10,000 INDIVIDUALS

As a result of the recently enacted American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA), also known as the federal economic stimulus package, the City of Hawthorne on behalf of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB), received an estimated $160 million in Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Emergency Contingency Funds (ECF) to provide subsidized employment for Fiscal Year 2009-10. Placements will occur throughout Los Angeles County. According to Executive Director, Jan Vogel, of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board, “I believe that this is the first time that a Transitional Subsidized Employment (TSE) program has been funded by ARRA funds, and certainly the largest such program in the country. We are excited to be a part of this great opportunity to fuel our local economy with this funding to provide subsidized employment to CalWORKs participants.”

The goal of the program is to place up to 10,000 CalWORKs participants in subsidized employment in the public, private and non-profit sectors. Currently, TSE is provided through a contract between the County of Los Angeles Department of Public Social Services (DPSS) and the City of Hawthorne on behalf of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board, which in turn, sub-contracts with One-Stop/WorkSource Centers located throughout Los Angeles County.

The ARRA funds must be expended by September 30, 2010, therefore the South Bay Workforce Investment Board will work diligently to infuse these funds countywide to stimulate the economy. According to the Mayor of Hawthorne, Larry Guidi, “It is important to have our communities benefit from the impact of this funding as quickly as possible. In addition, we are pleased to play an integral role in this visionary project conceived by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The South Bay Workforce Investment Board partnered with the City of Hawthorne, the State Department of Rehabilitation, the State of California Employment Development Department, the Airport Area Chamber of Commerce, Golds Gym and the South Bay One Stop Business and Career Centers to host this year’s 9th Annual Blueprint For Workplace Success Youth Job Fair. Attracting the largest audience in the history of the event, there were nearly 1,100 young adults in attendance, ages 16-24.

At the youth job fair, young adults were connected with 60 companies offering full and part-time job opportunities. More than 170 young adults who completed job readiness training received face-to-face interviews with representatives of companies who were there to provide entry-level jobs to qualified candidates. Executive Director of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board, Jan Vogel stated, “we expect that most of them will have job offers in the next couple of days and hundreds more will receive offers over the next few weeks.” Those companies on hand to provide on-site interviews included Sears, Daniels Jewelers, Aarow Advertising, Pacific Parks and Wells Fargo Bank.

The Blueprint for Workplace Success Youth Job Fair has been one of the most successful events for youth employment. 18 schools received transportation to the event provided by the South Bay Workforce Investment Board. A host of other colleges and universities also attended. Various volunteer agencies provided 80 volunteers for the event. These agencies included the State of California Department of Rehabilitation, Los Angeles County Probation Department, Behavioral Health Services, AADAP, Centinela Youth Services, Hawthorne Senior Center, City of Gardena, City of Carson, U-Turn Project, and the South Bay One-Stop Business and Career Centers.
In 2008-2009 Program Year 78,849 customers visited the South Bay One-Stop Business and Career Centers in Inglewood, Redondo Beach, Carson and Gardena, and received a wide range of self-help and staff-assisted career services, including labor market information, on-line career profiles, career interest inventories, supportive service referrals, vocational counseling, technical training, and job placement assistance.

More than 300 civic leaders, employers, training and workforce professionals, and program graduates attended the 14th Annual South Bay Workforce Investment Board (SBWIB) Awards Breakfast held at the Ayres Hotel in Hawthorne to celebrate the outstanding accomplishments of the workforce investment community. In attendance were Congressmember Maxine Waters, City of Hawthorne Mayor Larry Guldi, City of Carson Mayor Jim Dear and a host of other dignitaries.

Wayne Spencer, Chairman of the SBWIB Board of Directors, served as master of ceremonies. Under the theme "Facing Today's Challenges", Mr. Spencer touted the SBWIB for operating one of the nations' largest American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) funded programs in the country. He further stated that the SBWIB has provided more than 75,000 youth and adults with a wide range of career preparation services this past year.

Dr. Mildred Garcia, President of California State University at Dominguez Hills delivered the keynote address. Dr. Garcia spoke about emerging from the current economic crisis through expanded partnerships with business, workforce organizations and other institutions throughout the South Bay. She stated that, “through these partnerships, we are able to enrich our educational experience by giving students direct exposure to this incredible hub of global commerce.”

The event closed with the presentation of the special Esther Williams Award of Excellence to Congressmember Maxine Waters. In accepting the Esther Williams Award of Excellence, Congressmember Waters recognized the contributions made by the South Bay Workforce Investment Board under Jan Vogel’s leadership. Congressmember Waters stressed that even with the infusion of the economic recovery funding, it is necessary to foster economic development and job creation. She commended the Annual Alumni Breakfast as an important vehicle to bring community leaders together to ensure that the workforce in the South Bay remains strong.

What People Think of the South Bay Workforce Investment Board’s One-Stop Business and Career Center

Marshalls Department Store (Hawthorne, Inglewood, and Torrance)

"Prior to working with the One-Stop, we had trouble finding dependable, honest, and hard working employment candidates. The One-Stops were able to provide for these employment needs, and Marshalls provided an excellent opportunity for participants to learn workplace skills."

Smart and Final, Lawndale

"We were very pleased with the quality of candidates referred by the One-Stop and several job offers were extended. Today, we no longer use outside advertising to fill our job openings. Smart and Final and the One-Stop have continued to work together to form a strong partnership that has resulted in mutually beneficial participant hiring."

Costco Business Center

"In a partnership with the WIB, we were able to hire 100 employees in order to meet their grand opening deadline of March 2009. "We were in need of a large number of employees in a very short period of time. As a long standing partner of Costco, the WIB was excited to help us meet our hiring needs in a timely manner."

Leonel Felix

"At the One-Stop, I received great service and was offered the opportunity to enroll in Aircraft Structures Training provided by El Camino College. I completed the training and a job offer was extended to me by Northrop Grumman as a Structural Composite Trainee."

Jarrell Woods

"The One-Stop's provide a very important service. I enrolled in El Camino Community College to study animation. My Career Counselor at the One-Stop was wonderful and set up an interview at the Costco Business Center where I was later hired."
